The sun is vital to our survival on earth, but its rays have plenty of adverse side effects as well.

We've all been there - you keep your home cool during the hot summer months by cranking up the AC - but then have a sigh of disgust when you get the electric bill.

Or maybe you wake up one day, disappointed to find that your beautiful living room furniture is beginning to fade.

It's frustrating. Harsh rays from the sun heat our homes to high temperatures, cause furniture to fade, and even affect our health!

But it doesn't have to be that way.

When you invest in quality window tinting, you help protect yourself and your belongings from the sun while still reaping the positive benefits of sunshine.

Let's take a look at 5 ways tinting the windows home can improve the quality of your life.

1. Enjoy More Consistent Interior Temperatures

Have you ever yelled at the kids for leaving a door or window open?

It's frustrating to try to heat and cool the outdoors, but sometimes it's not their fault! In fact, many homes have fluctuating temperatures from room to room, and at the very least they get cold at night and piping hot during the day.

During the spring and fall months it can be a constant race to adjust the thermostat!

Thankfully, window film blocks up to 98% of the solar energy, so your house can stay cooler during the hottest months of the year.

Window film also retains more heat in the winter, meaning your home will be more comfortable all year round.

With a quality window tint, you reduce the intensity of sunlight and enjoy relaxing in the sunroom without adjusting the thermostat!

2. Boost Your Curb Appeal

Your home is not just the place where you reside. It is an investment, meant to provide financial security for you and your family.

An easy way to increase your home's value is to make improvements to the exterior, which is referred to as curb appeal.

Window tinting is a quick and easy way to add lasting value to your home.

Why?

Paint shades, architectural styles, landscaping, and design elements need frequent updating as tastes change. However, choosing to tint your windows provides protection and creates an aesthetic that can last for years with minimal maintenance.

3.Reduce Interior Fading

It's maddening to discover that your valuable furniture and floors have faded due to harsh ultraviolet rays that penetrate glass.

Irreplaceable artwork can also be destroyed even in partial sun exposure.

Thankfully, window film reduces fading up to 99% by blocking invisible Ultraviolet Rays (UVA, UVB, & UVC)

4. Help Block Harmful UV Radiation

Amir Khoshnevis, Doctor of Optometry, recommends that all his patients tint the windows of their home and vehicle.

Why?

Because he has seen first hand that harmful UVA and UVB radiation can cause cancer, melanoma, cataracts, and degenerative eye diseases.

XPEL Prime window film helps solve this problem by protecting you and your family from up to 99% of Ultraviolet Rays.

5. Feel More Secure With Complete Daytime Privacy

During the day, tinted windows make it more difficult to see inside a house.

That means you can walk around the house in your PJ's without worrying about others observing your private life!

Beyond that, tinting your windows with a security film can help stave off everything from intruders to natural disasters such as storms, fires, and earthquakes.

In these events, the security film will help hold the glass together longer, thus decreasing the chance of injury.

In the event of a home invasion, it would take more effort for the intruder to breach the glass and gain entry, giving you more time to react and call the authorities.
